Opportunities

The Martin Ward Anderson International team works with the world's most respected organisations in locations across the globe.

In today's global business environment, employers put increasing emphasis on the importance of gaining experience overseas. Martin Ward Anderson presents you with options across sectors, disciplines and locations.

why work overseas

The Chartered Accountancy qualification is your passport to working Overseas. There are many reasons for choosing to make an overseas move - career development, lifestyle, financial security, cultural experience and regional economic activity - with each individual having their own preference. Moving jobs is an important decision at the best of times, and moving locations affects every area of your life.

confident and experienced

Martin Ward Anderson has an established division dedicated to assisting Chartered Accountants in making a move overseas. We help you work out the most appropriate locations for your requirements, provide a selection of vacancies and network of employers interested in someone with your skills. Importantly, Martin Ward Anderson will assist you throughout the interview and relocation process.

characteristics

- confident personality and excellent interpersonal skills
- international perspective with an application and understanding of different cultural and business practices
- fluency in a second language is only required for certain roles and locations

testimonial

"The Global Opportunities Forum clarified my options and made moving from London an easier step for me and my partner. The consultant's knowledge of my preferred location was critical and reassuring. With several interviews being arranged through his established contacts, multiple offers followed very quickly."
Mark, Manager, Big 4 firm, New Zealand
